This document is designed to inform you about the management of the information you disclose to your Clinician. Psychological consultations address issues of a highly personal nature and it is important that you understand your rights regarding your records and personal information collected.

Purpose Of Collecting and Retaining Information

As part of providing a Psychological service to a client, the Clinician will need to collect and record personal information that is relevant to the Client's current situation. Collection of personal information is a necessary part of Psychological assessment. Information is gathered as part of the assessment, diagnosis and treatment of the client, as is seen only by Outlook Psychology Clinician's. The information is retained to document what happens during Psychological consultations and enables the Clinician to provide a relevant and informed Psychological service.

Exchange of Client Information

There may be times where, as part of the assessment and therapy process, it may be helpful for your Clinician to liaise with other people or agencies that are relevant to your therapy goals. Additional consent forms will be requested in the instances.

Please Note: If you intend to claim rebates from Medicare or are covered through a third party provider (i.e NDIS) then your clinician must provide summary reports to these external agencies regarding their treatment progress.

Please Note: Signing this form acknowledges your consent to allow us to provide these Medicare reports to the referring Clinician and or/Providers.
